DETAILED ACTION

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114.

Applicant's submission filed on October 30, 2003 has been entered.

2. This Office action is in response to the amendment filed October 1, 2003 in which claims 1 and 6-9 were amended.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 12-15 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sasaki (US 6,187,939).

Sasaki teaches a method for preparing fatty acid esters and fuel comprising fatty acid esters, wherein fats and oils with an alcohol are reacted in the presence of a catalyst under a condition wherein at least one of the components will be in a supercritical state (see abstract; col. 5, lines 1-5). Sasaki teaches that the catalyst may be an alkali or alkaline earth carbonate (see col. 5, lines 11-16) and is present in the process reaction composition in an amount up to 0.1 wt %. The fats may be waste oils (see claims 8 and 9). The esters may be used as a diesel fuel, fuel additive or as a lubrication base oil (see col. 6, lines 6-10). Sasaki exemplifies reaction temperatures far in excess of 260 C (see examples).

5. Sasaki teaches the limitations of the claims other than the process by which the esters were made. However, even though product-by-process claims are limited by and defined by the process, determination of patentability is based on the product itself. The patentability of a product does not depend on its method of production. If the product in the product-by-process claim is the same as or obvious from a product of the prior art, the claim is unpatentable even though the prior product was made by a different process. In re Thorpe, 227 USPQ 964 (Fed. Cir. 1985).

6. Applicant argues that the limitation added to the claims regarding the catalyst overcomes the prior art rejection.

7. The amendment does overcome the rejection of the claims that are directed to the process. However, Applicant has not shown that the product that he obtains is different from that obtained by the prior art.

Art Unit: 1714

8. Claims 1, 3-11 and 17 are allowable because the prior art fails to teach or suggest that the solid base catalyst is present in an amount of 3 to 6 parts by weight per 100 parts by weight of the oil or fat. The prior art also fails to teach a process for producing a fatty acid ester from oil or fat and an alcohol wherein the solid catalyst is a nickel-containing catalyst and wherein at least one of the oil, fat or alcohol is in a supercritical state.
